HARMONIZE VIEWS

The Object Of The Reciprocity Convention Is Outlined.

Chairman Search Speaks To The 200 Delegates Present.

He Points Out The Propositions On Which They Are Agreed.

Washington, Nov. 19.—At the national reciprocity convention, which began its session in this city today, many of the manufacturing industries of the United States are represented. In response to the call issued by the National Association of Manufacturers at Detroit last June two hundred delegates are present. The convention is representative of all sections, and its object is to give expression to the views of manufacturers generally on the subject of reciprocity. D. A. Tompkins of Charlotte, N. C., was chosen temporary chairman, and Theodore S. Search of Philadelphia was made permanent chairman. The organization was completed by the election of these officers: Vice chairman, General W. F. Draper of Massachusetts; T. L. Hickman of Georgia, Charles H. Harding of Pennsylvania, James Deering of Illinois, T. S. Sheard of New York city and Robert J. Morgan of Ohio; secretaries, Edward H. Sanborn of Pennsylvania and E. P. Wilson of Cincinnati. The convention adopted resolutions of greeting to President Roosevelt, lauding his support and expressing confidence in his administration. Search, in taking the chair, outlined the work before the convention and said, in part: "Our aim has been to forestall tariff agitation, not to encourage it. It is the duty of this convention to harmonize as far as possible the widely differing opinions represented in this body, and to reduce clear and forceful expression to principles as we hold in common. We are here to harmonize our views, not to emphasize our differences. This is a time or place for sentiment, for theories or for statements that cannot be fully substantiated by facts. I take that we are all agreed as to the general propositions, such as these: That some of the duties embraced in the present tariff are no longer needed for the existence of the industries or whose protection they are imposed. That many of our industries have reached a stage in their development where the home market alone cannot absorb their entire product, and consequently new outlets are necessary for their continuous operation and the steady employment of their operatives. That the establishment of more cordial commercial relations with other nations, by means of an exchange of tariff concessions, would enlarge the foreign outlets of those industries for which increased export trade is necessary. That, if such applications of the principles of commercial reciprocity could be made without injury to any of our industries, the consequent expansion of our foreign trade would be beneficial to our commercial and industrial interests. Coffee and tea are about the only great staple articles of commerce which we do not produce, and if reciprocity be limited to the use of these two commodities as a basis for negotiations, we cannot expect to make much progress. To insist on strict adherence to such a principle in making application of reciprocity is virtually to oppose its use in any practical form. The reciprocity that is wanted today is a reciprocity that means something and promises something in the shape of tangible advantages for our commerce—not merely expressions of kind sentiment toward all the business world, but an actual giving and taking of concessions that will open wider for us the markets of the world and broaden the distribution of our products." The convention then took a recess.

INTERNAL REVENUE RECEIPTS.

Washington, Nov. 19.—The annual report of the commissioner of internal revenue, shows that the total receipts for the year ending June 30, 1901, were $306,871,669, or $11,555,361 in excess of the estimate.

BIG LOAD OF GOLD.

Kaiser Wilhelm Der Gross Sail's With $7,182,583 29.

Enough To Make Lead Pirates Turn In Watery Grave.

Big Treasure Ship Has Not Even a Cannonade To Guard.

New York, Nov. 19.—No ship in world's history has been so richly laden as was the North German Lloyd steamship Kaiser Wilhelm der Gross, which sailed this morning at ten o'clock. The big steamer carried out eight hundred and eighty-two bars of gold, valued at $7,082,583, with not a cannonade to guard. A few dead pirates that ever boarded a treasure ship must be rolling in the waves at the thought of having a century or so too soon. The precautions that have been taken to prevent robbery are such as might be taken in a bank. Armed guards loaded the trucks of old John Barkley, who for years has been the gold carrier for W. A. Street, from the treasury to the North German Lloyd pier, and the unlimited millions were stowed in the big vaults below decks, where none of the ship's crew passengers will have any chance to do any thieving. The only chance to get the prize would be on the high seas, and the world has become too hot for exploits of that kind. Twenty plates have already graced the floors, and so now rifles and revolvers do what great guns failed to do—smash when Kidd and his crew sailed under the black flag. The bars of gold were packed in boxes and eggs. Into each box four bars were packed, and into each egg seven. The gold was done at the sub-treasury where gold is just so much merchandise like pig iron or potatoes. Representatives of the various banks, who were doing the shipping, were on hand to see that there was no mistake about the amount that was being shipped, and the steamship company's men, who were to check up in their behavior money to ship such a vast treasure to Europe. To begin with, insurance on such a cargo is $100 cents per $100. This means an expenditure of nearly $5,000 of the amount which went out today. The freight charges on the gold amounted to over $8,000, and then there was the expense of the packing and trucking and the guarding of it.

Mr. Gorman produces the evidence of the fact that a man who decides to retire to private life can nearly always be induced to change his mind if the opportunity is right.

The question whether college professors should wear gowns is being discussed. Possibly Dr. Mary Walker might have some interesting if not valuable opinions on the subject.

Bulgaria may eventually realize that upon Miss Stoin's safety depends its hope of postponing trouble, compared to which the failure to collect a ransom would be insignificant.

General Weyler may become the premier in the Spanish ministry. General Weyler has had so many different kinds of trouble that he ought to be a pretty safe man by this time.

President Schwarb of the steel combine has had his salary reduced to a paltry $100,000. But as he is to receive a percentage of the profits in addition to this, he will probably manage to make both ends meet.

The Chinese have, with great pomp and circumstance, chased away with the celestial dragon which threatened to devour the sun. It is depressing to think of Minister Wu's being obliged to return to a country that harbors such unlightened customs.

Labor unions in Kentucky have not yet beyond the state of civilization that surrounds them in the districts where coal mines have been opened. Their answer at the recent remarks of Mr. Breckinridge at Louisville that the day of strikes and violence had passed is regular armed attack by union strikers upon the works of a coal company at Madisonville. We have not sufficient knowledge to form judgment as to the merits of the strike of coal miners in Kentucky, but their method of settling it by the use of battle certainly smacks of a day that was supposed to have passed long ago.

According to the annual report of the commissioner of immigration, the character of the aliens who seek a home in this country is improving. This conclusion seems to be based upon such evidence as the return of a smaller number as liable to become a public charge, a somewhat smaller ratio of illiterate and the possession of a little more money on arrival. The change in these points is not enough to be very significant. Though the immigration shows an increase of 1 per cent. over last year, the proportion of the alien element to the native population steadily diminishes. This is a favorable sign, for the process of assimilation will be easier and more rapid as this ingredient is reduced.

DARTMOUTH EAGER.

It is not thought that Postponement Till Thanksgiving Day Will Benefit the Team.

Hanover, Nov. 20.—Brown and Dartmouth have come to an agreement over the annual football game to be played at Providence. Brown has accepted the second clause of Dartmouth's proposition, which is to play the game at Providence on Thanksgiving day, the halves to be of 35 minutes' duration. Dartmouth's first proposition was to play the game on the scheduled date next Saturday in 30 minute halves.

The postponement of the game will be to the advantage of both teams in the physical condition undoubtedly. The general feeling at Dartmouth, however, is that the postponement will not materially benefit the Hanover team. The players are eager for the game, and in as good condition as they have been before any game this season. There is the chance of their going stale. With McCormack at the helm, however, it is hoped that this will be avoided.

The heavy snowstorm promises to keep the ground covered and unfit for practice the rest of the season. This may necessitate a season of practice in Boston before the Brown game, of which there is talk now. Morris Connor, the Harvard extackle, is assisting McCormack this week in training the men and secret practice is being carried on morning and afternoon in the gymnasium, with such afternoon practice as is possible on the campus.

The church is a treasure house of noble traditions, of high ideals, of great memories. It is the dwelling place of uplifting aspirations and ennobling hopes. It is made holy by the worship of innumerable multitudes.—November Ladies' Home Journals.

FOOT BALL NOTES.

Drop kicking seems to run in the Daily family.

Has Yale got something up her sleeve for Harvard?

Williams now wears the laurel wreath of the Tri-Collegiate league.

West Point took a day off, Saturday, and will rest until going against the Quakers this week.

Mike Murphy is not at all conspicuous when Yale is playing, the reason his work is all done before the game begins.

Harvard receives pretty good football material, when she is able to turn out a winning freshman eleven every year.

Dartmouth was satisfied in scornful tone on Harvard, something that the team has been able to accomplish this season.

Jack Mackley can now take a front seat with the successful football players. He had Cornell in fine fettle or the lads from Morningside heights.

Old Nassau is now cut of commission. The comment from Yale coaches and players is that it was a poor game and that Yale did not do herself justice. At any other college the defeat of Princeton would be hailed as a great victory, but Yale never bows until she is out of the woods.

The New Haven Evening Register says that previous to 1890 Yale beat Harvard sixteen consecutive games, but only lost the '90 game because Holcomb, who had played center rush very day until within two days of the big game, was laid off, and Lewis Law school man, was substituted since 1890 Harvard has defeated Yale once—in 1893.

The contract for laying out the new athletic field at Phillips-Anderson academy, which is to be known as Brothers field, has just been awarded, and the work of draining and grading will be done as far as possible during the winter, so that the field can be made ready for use, next spring. There will be two baseball grounds laid out, also two football fields and several tennis courts.

The last of a long line of Poes has finally secured his varsity "P" down at Princeton. Saturday was Gressam's last opportunity, and it looked as though Freeman was taken out of the game to give the fifth brother of Princeton's famous family a chance; however that may be, Poe put a net into the Tiger team, and his running was one of the features of the Tigers' game.

Mike Murphy says that the odds on Yale for the Harvard-Yale game Saturday, should be about five to four. Yale, Murphy was much pleased over the showing the team made against Princeton, and that ever, an except Goss was in great shape at the end of the game Little Deaulles, however, was a mass of rules and black and blue marks, but Saturday night was about the New Haven houses chipper and lively.

THE TRIAL BEGINS.

Lambert Murder Case Is Now On.

Choosing A Jury Occupies Nearly All Day, Tuesday.

List of Talesmen Nearly Exhausted Before Twelve Men Were Selected.

Hanover, Me., Nov. 19.—Henry J. Lambert, a young Canadian guide, was put on trial in the supreme judicial court here today, charged with one of the most heinous murders that ever occurred in this state. The verdict charges him with killing J. Wesley Allen a Shirley farmer. The choosing of a jury occupied the attention of the court nearly all day, and sixty-two of the seventy-six talesmen summoned were examined before the twelfth man had taken his seat in the jury box. When the panel had been completed the indictment was read and he respondent entered a plea of not guilty. County Attorney Durgin then began the opening argument for the state. He spoke a little over an hour when he had completed the court adjourned for the day. The first witness for the state will be called when the court opens tomorrow morning.

DARTMOUTH NOTES.

Hanover, Nov. 19.—Steps are being taken for the organization of a debating union among the students. It is hoped at this year Dartmouth will have a debating team which will wipe out the laurels of the past two years.

For the Dartmouth game the Brown officials are making preparations for the biggest crowd of spectators yet seen at a football game in Providence. It is reported that a large crowd of old Dartmouth men from New York, as well as many from many other cities, are coming up to see the game. A large number of students are making preparations to attend.

From all appearances it would seem as if the initiations into fraternities were going on.

The basketball practice under the direction of Captain Guy Abbott is now being held in the gymnasium. The new English Inter-Collegiate Basketball Association, taking the place of Yale.

The Sophomores and Freshmen have a most game of football at Alumni field this afternoon.

FATHER BARRY MEMORIAL.

Handsome Chapel of the Gothic Style to be Erected.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Father Barry memorial fund general committee was held in Concord and the condition of the fund was found very satisfactory. The treasurer, Hon. John M. Mitchell, reporting $4,200 in his possession as the result of subscriptions. It is expected that shortly the $5,000 mark will be reached.

Handsome designs and plans of a chapel of the Gothic style, suitable for the desired memorial, were displayed and pleased the members of the committee very much.

Arrangements were also perfected for a lecture to be delivered at Phoenix hall, in aid of the fund, on Thanksgiving night, by Mrs. Helen O'Donnell, of Brooklyn, N. Y., her subject being "Irish Music," appropriately illustrated by selected songs. This lady comes highly recommended, especially by the number of Concord people who heard her with much pleasure and satisfaction at York beach during the past summer.

HARVARD'S VETERINARY STUDENTS TO STUDY IN PHILADELPHIA.

The Harvard School of Veterinary Medicine will not be re-established, although the university still retains a nominal connection with the institution by sending its students to the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary school and paying their tuition there. When the students complete their course in the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary school they will receive a diploma, which will be accepted as equal to that given by Harvard.

Six veterinary students from Harvard have registered at Pennsylvania this fall under these arrangements.

CAUSE OF DEAFNESS.

The Most Common Cause Only Recently Discovered.

It has been stated on good medical authority that nine-tenths of cases of deafness are caused from catarrh or inflammation of the throat.

The little tube which leads to the throat is lined with a thin membrane. This membrane is a continuation of the mucous membrane lining the throat. When inflamed of any sort attacks the mucous membrane of the throat it is very able to extend into the Eustachian tube and up into the ear.

The history of nearly all cases of deafness is like this; a cold is contracted and neglected, other colds are taken, the throat becomes sore and inflamed, which is aggravated by particles of dust and germs from the air. This condition causes the disease to spread into the tube that leads to the ear.

It seems a little far fetched to say that most cases of deafness are caused from catarrh, but it is certainly true, and anyone who has had a severe catarrhal cold must have noticed how the hearing was affected while the cold lasted.

With catarrh sufferers this impairment of hearing becomes chronic and grows worse the longer the catarrh is neglected.

You can cure catarrh and deafness by the regular use of an excellent new preparation called Stuart's Catarrh Tablets composed of antiseptic remedies which act both on the mucous membranes but principally and most effectively on the blood, eliminating the catarrhal poison from the system.

People whose hearing is defective may think it a little remarkable that a simple and harmless tablet would very often remove all traces of deafness, but when it is remembered that catarrh causes the deafness and that the catarrh is easily cured by the regular use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets there is no mystery about it.

If you are subject to nasal catarrh or catarrh of throat, bronchial tubes or catarrh of stomach and liver, the safest and most effective treatment is the new catarrh specific, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, sold by all druggists at 50 cts. for full sized package.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

On Tuesday evening a most enjoyable committee's tea, was held at the association rooms at which State Secretary James A. Dummett and Mr. Morse, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of Nashua, were the guests of the occasion. Promptly at 6.30 the company sat down to a bountiful repast which was served by a committee from the Ladies' Auxiliary. After the banquet, E. Scott Owen, E. P. Kimball, W. F. Hoehn, Secretary Morse and State Secretary Dummett responded to their names with short but exceedingly interesting speeches on the work. Mr. Roberts, one of the active workers of the association, presided as president of the evening in a most admirable manner. At the close of the speeches a question box was opened and Secretary Dummett gave many valuable suggestions to the association.

The rummage sale was a great success.

The committee are now completing plans for their winter's work. The coming season promises to be one of the most prosperous in the history of the local association.

The Nashua association are just completing an excellent gymnasium and are increasing interest and membership at a surprising rate.

Now for an increase of funds for our new building. Let everyone help.

SPREAD OF ENGLISH SPARROW.

A Map Showing the Present Distribution of This Nimble Bird in the United States.

The agricultural department has recently printed a map showing the extent of country now occupied by the English sparrow. It has been multiplying with marvelous rapidity, and is now found in most parts of the country. Only three states, Montana, Nevada and Wyoming, and three territories, Alaska, Arizona and New Mexico, are free from the sparrow. It is found in California, both north and south of San Francisco. In the valley of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers, and along the coast. It is scattered among the settlements on the Columbia river and Puget sound. It has spread all over the eastern half of the country from North Dakota to the Mississippi delta. It has, however, avoided the sandy region of Florida and is not found to any extent in our most densely wooded areas. As might be expected, it has given our vast semi-arid region a wide berth, though a large colony has settled in the fertile agricultural region around Salt Lake City.

It is only 31 years since the English sparrow was first introduced into this country by a gentleman of Brooklyn, who sought a remedy for the worms that were destroying the trees of that town. The sparrow has a keen appetite for worms. In the case of time the injury done the trees by worms was largely abated through this little bird. So it became quite a fad to import sparrows from Europe and turn them loose in our towns. A thousand birds were sent to Philadelphia in a single lot. Many birds were also distributed far and wide from the colonies already started. Thus everything was done to help the sparrow to increase and replenish this part of the world.

Undoubtedly the sparrow has destroyed a great many tons of worms.
But the remedy has proved worse than the disease. Perhaps the worms have been held in check to some extent; but we have a great many more sparrows than we have use for. They destroy fruit and grain, disfigure buildings in cities and towns, drive away other birds and in fact are nuisances.
The dear little sparrow has come to be regarded as the worst of the feathered pests. Efforts to exterminate it are now making in this country, but it is too late. The sparrow has been naturalized and he is here to stay.
Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and Utah in the past few years have paid out many thousands of dollars in the bounties offered for its destruction, but no one has yet observed any diminution in the number of birds.

The English sparrow is a very successful emigrant. It has been carried to the remote islands of the seas and is flourishing in the Pacific ocean, including the Hawaiian islands. It has gained a foothold in Argentina and is hopping all over Bermuda, the Bahama islands and Cuba. It was sent to Bernada from New York in 1847 and a fine was imposed upon anyone who destroyed it. Ten years later bounties were paid for its destruction, and in three years nearly $300 were expended in this way without causing any appreciable decrease, though the islands have an area of less than 20 square miles. All the colonies of Australia have "sparrow destruction laws," but the bird declines to leave the friends who welcomed it as a blessing and would now be happy to speed its departure.

published story of the reported conspiracy to secure the independence of sador from Austria-Hungary to the United States, who has just returned from a vacation of several months spent at Vienna, called upon President Roosevelt, Monday. The ambassador was charged with conveying to the president Emperor Francis Joseph's best wishes for the success of his administration and the prosperity of his country.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Hackett presented Edward Lander, one of the oldest graduates from Harvard now living, to the president, Monday.
Mr. Lander graduated in the class of 1836. He told the president that he was a freshman when Andrew Jackson received a degree from Harvard. He said that he had met personally every president since Jackson's time with the exception of the elder Harrison and James K. Polk.

Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, who has just returned to Washington from Russia, paid his respects to Secretary Hay, Monday. The count was charged with many warm utterances by the Emperor of Russia complimentary to the American people and in addition to having recounted these to Secretary Hay he will personally convey a special message to President Roosevelt from the emperor, including an expression of condolence on account of the death of President McKinley.

INTERESTING DOUBLE EVENT.

Miss Walker of Dover Married on Her Parent's Wedding Anniversary.

Dover, Nov. 20.—A wedding and the thirtieth anniversary celebration of a wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. David Walker, 12 Monroe street, last evening, and the double event was enjoyed by a large number of persons.

The thirtieth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Walker's marriage was marked by the marriage of their daughter, Miss Robina D. Walker, to Christopher C. Canney of this city.
Rev. John G. Robinson, rector of St.
Thomas' Episcopal church, officiated.
The best man was William Walker, brother of the bride. The maid of honor was Miss Elizabeth Tarror.

A double reception was held at the close of the ceremony, when both couples were showered with congratulations. The younger couple left on a morning train today for a tour.
They will make their home in this city.

THE BURGOMASTER.

Unusually Large House Greatly Satisfied by It at Music Hall.

Seldom has Music hall held a larger or more pleased audience than that which on Tuesday evening greeted the merry conglomeration of wit, beauty and song, entitled The Burgomaster. The director of this piece, Walter Perkins, a Manchester boy, shows that he is every bit a master of music, and its jolly jingle is without a doubt as fascinating as that of any musical comedy that ever came to Portsmouth. It was given with all the dash that is expected at a performance of this kind and from the opening to the closing lines the large house was entertained without a lull.
Richard Carle as Peter Stuyvesant, in the leading part, attracted admiring attention and nothing too complimentary can be said of his work as a comedian. He was well supported by Knox Wilson as Docile von Kull, and the other leading members of the company. Mr. Carle had an endless number of thoroughly refreshing jokes and the manner in which they were sprung kept the house in laughter about all the time he held the boards.
The music of the choruses was catchy and of a high order, while the dances were exceptionally artistic. The cancerina and saxophone specialty introduced by Knox Wilson took excellently well. Taken altogether the comedy is replete with bright features, and furnishes an entertainment that is well worth attending.

The older philosophers were right in regarding self-consciousness as the peculiarly significant mark of humanity. To come to consciousness of one's self and of one's relations to the spiritual universe is to become alive in the truest sense.—November Ladies' Home Journal.

THEATRICAL NEWS

THE FAST MAIL.

In speaking of The Fast Mail the Commercial Tribune of Cincinnati on Aug. 20th says: "If the wild applause and two large audiences furnish any guage as to the popularity of a play, The Fast Mail which opened at the Lycium yesterday afternoon is still as potent with the masses as ever.
To spite the torridity of the weather two of the largest audiences ever assembled at the Lycium enjoyed the thrilling scenes and climaxes of Mr.
Carter's masterpiece, The Fast Mail.
The advance notices promised a better production of The Mail than had previously been given in this city and we can truthfully state that these promises were more than fulfilled.
The scenery is new, more beautiful than we have ever seen in the play in its previous visits to this city, particularly 'the Niagara falls' as presented last night at the Lycium was undoubtedly the most beautiful scenic achievement that has ever been seen on that stage. The freight train with its Mogul engine puffing and panting was as real as of yore, the flight of The Fast Mail seems to have kept pace with the increased speed of the railroads throughout the country. The cast was decidedly better than any that have previously presented The Fast Mail in Cincinnati. We predict that The Fast Mail will be the largest drawing card that the Lycium has had this season.

RICE'S EVANGELINE.

Next Monday evening Music hall opens its doors for Ed Rice's Evangeline which promises to surpass all its former performances. The cast which includes Hallen Mostyn Gus Daly, William Burruss, Charles Guyer, Edwin H. Carroll, James Reynolds, William Gillow, Isabelle Underwood, Lila Blow, Mabelle Courtney, Mlle. Amrita is especially strong. A prettier aggregation of choristers, it is said, has not been seen on Music hall stage; but while striving to please the eye, Mr. Rice has not lost sight of the necessity of securing vocal effectiveness. Mr. Rice will conduct the stage orchestra the first act.

So far as the beauty of the female contingent is concerned Manager Rice's reputation for providing the prettiest choruses seen on the stage will be sustained. The ladies engaged in the present Evangeline are marvels in looks and they can sing.

WITH MISS JACKSON.

Harry J. Fellows, who appears with Miss Leonora Jackson at Music hall on Thanksgiving night, Nov. 28, is one of the most popular singers on the concert stage and has won laurels from the Atlantic to the Pacific. His voice is of large compass and telling brilliance and his refined gentian personality and "songs that touch the heart" have made him a favorite wherever he has appeared. His training was under Handegger at London.
He has sung with various notable organizations, the Apollo and the Cecilia clubs of Brooklyn, the Chicago Symphony orchestra under Theodore Thomas, the St. Louis Choral Symphony, etc., etc., and has been a soloist at several musical festivals.

The combination of a star of Miss Jackson's calibre, with a tenor of Mr.
Fellows' popularity, and a pianist of Mr. Bauer's rare gifts, cannot but afford the public wherever these artists appear, a musical treat of the first magnitude, an event to be long remembered. Mr. Fellows has been especially engaged to tour with Miss Jackson this season.

PARK THEATRE, BOSTON, MASS.

Lovers' Lane, which is entering upon its second month at the Park theatre, Boston, continues to draw enormous audiences and the cozy house nightly rings with merriment and applause. Previous engagements will prevent this delightful play from remaining very much longer but before it is withdrawn it will have exceeded the time originally assigned it. The popular verdict approving Wm. A. Brady's delightful offering is thoroughly justified for it is a sweet wholesome, fascinating love story blending with dramatic incidents, at times pathetic and at times farcical.

Henry S. Paul, commander of Storer Post, No. 1, G. A. R., went to Newmarket last evening to make an inspection of the Grand Army Post of that place.

BABY'S BUSINESS

A healthy baby is comfortable; and that is enough for a baby. His business in life is to grow.

Aside from acute diseases, his food is the cause of most of his troubles. But Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil delivers him from it.

He isn't sick; only a little hitch, somewhere, in his machine for turning food into growth.

It is a great thing to do, for a baby, to help him over a hitch with mere food—the emulsion is food that has the tact to get there.

The tact to get there is medicine.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

Women Guides in Europe.

For the guidance of the women of Chicago who propose to visit Europe during the summer a journal of that city publishes the following piece of advice and information:

"The Chicago woman who contemplates a trip to London this summer would do well to remember that one institution in the British capital is of special value to the visiting stranger.
Reference is made to the women guides, whose express purpose is to supply women tourists with members of their own sex to pilot them safely over the popular tours of England and the British isles—in fact, over any part of the continent of Europe into which the tourist may wish to penetrate.
These guides are women of culture and must speak French, German and English, else their applications for these rather agreeable berths will not be considered. They tip the servants, pay the cabbies, point out the distinguished people met on the drives or promenades and comment intelligently upon all places of interest as these come into view, with which they must be familiar. They must also be thoroughly aucoursant with the gossip of the town, must accompany their patronesses to the concert or the theater if desired.
They are expected to work six hours daily, and they receive but 10 shillings per diem, equivalent to about $2.50 of American money, for which small sum they save the traveler every possible annoyance. They are always trustworthy, sober, obliging, frequently brilliant and interesting companions."

For Feminine Valet in Common.

It is proposed that summer hotels provide a ladies' maid for the convenience of their guests who do not engage the services of one by the month. Since bodies are so generally buttoned or fastened in other ways up the back this season, such help will be a necessity to all smart dressers. A systematic list of daily engagements, with reasonable tips, should be profitable to a young woman understanding her business, says Vogue. This leads up to a long felt want in all hotels and apartments in town, where women are constantly requiring a visiting maid and are willing to pay for such services by the hour, the day or the week. The expense of paying high wages to a maid and then adding the hotel prices for her room and board make it impossible in the majority of cases for any out very rich women to attempt it. The science of living has advanced sufficiently for this condition of things to be corrected at an early day.

Bismarck as a Lover.

From "The Love Letters of Bismarck," just published by Harpers, this extract from a letter to his wife is taken:

"I married you in order to love you in God and according to the need of my heart and in order to have in the midst of the strange world a place for my heart, which all the world's bleak winds cannot chill and where I may find the warmth of the home fire to which I eagerly betake myself when it is stormy and cold without, but not to have a society woman for others, and I shall cherish and nurse your little fireplace, put wood on it and blow and protect it against all that is evil and strange, for next to God's mercy there is nothing which is dearer and more necessary to me than your love and the homelike hearth that stands between us everywhere, even in a strange land, when we are together."

Gifts For Mrs. McKinley.

Among the presents received by Mrs.
McKinley during her trip to the west were an exquisitely embroidered bed-spread from the Chinese residents of Los Angeles, a profusion of flowers from the women of the southern cities visited, a crate of strawberries grown near Houston, Tex., dates grown and cured in Arizona, rare flowers from the women employed in the mint at New Orleans and a loving cup and a basket of trout from the women of Decatur, Ala., presented through two of Mrs.
McKinley's former schoolmates. School children all along the route brought little floral tributes which they lavished upon the president's wife, who on each occasion acknowledged the tributes in a graceful manner.

A CASE OF IT.

Many More Like It in Portsmouth.

The following case is but one of many similar occurring daily in Portsmouth. It is an easy matter to verify its correctness. Surely you cannot ask for better proof than such conclusive evidence.

Mr. George W. Lord of 44 Congress street, says:—"Occasionally I had an attack of lame back and pain in the loins; the latter as caused from simply moving a small stand as I was retiring for the night. I felt it all through me, causing a sort of nausea, a disagreeable sensation in the head, tenderness in the loins, headache and trouble with the kidney secretions.
At first the pain was acute, then it settled down to a dull grinding ache. I happened to read something about Doan's Kidney Pills. The recommendations were so positive and the representations were so convincing I concluded to try them and went to Phillbrick's pharmacy and got a box.
I only took a few doses before they relieved me. The second night after taking them I was able to sleep soundly all the time. Soon I was quite free from the aching, lameness and other inconveniences."

WOMAN'S WORLD

FRAU WAGNER, WHO DURED HER HAIR IN HER HUSBAND'S GRAVE.

Housekeeping as a Science—Benefits From the Bicycle—Trials of a Waitress—Revival of Barrington—A Mean Feminine Trick.

Frau Cosima Wagner, widow of the great Richard Wagner and one of the most efficient generalists in Europe as far as operative matters are concerned, has suffered her first rebuff in years.

The Prussian government has refused to sanction the passage of the copyright bill which would have made possible the extension for a certain number of years of the ownership by Wagner's heirs of the copyright privileges of his opera "Parsifal." This opera, as the rest of the musical world knows to its vexation, is now performed only at Bayreuth. The valuable copyright which protects it will, however, become invalid in 1913, at which date all of the great composer's works become public property. Anticipating this event, Frau Cosima and Herr Siegfried Wagner, her son, made this bold attempt to retain their exclusive right and failed.

To understand Frau Wagner's chagrin at this failure it is necessary to recall her almost fanatical devotion both to her husband's memory, and to every bar of his work. The husband long years ago of her romantic love for him when he was still the wife of an other man, her influence exerted upon her father, Liebi, in Wagner's favor, the tremendous energy she spent toward his advancement and the many manifestations of her wife's devotion, culminating in the spectacular sacrifice of her hair at Wagner's funeral day.

There is no suggestion in the appearance of the Frau Wagner of today—tall, massive, strong, bearded, with massive, snow-white hair piled that her head of this memorable incident of Wagner's funeral day.

Frau Cosima had brown hair then. It was long, shiny, abundant, a great ornament. Wagner, who himself admired the wife he had in a most extreme, romantic fashion, had always thought her hair particularly beautiful. As he lay in his coffin, therefore, it occurred to the new bride widow to replace her widowhood, at the dedication and reinterment, by cutting off her magnificent hair, coiling it up and placing it under her husband's head as a pillow for his coffin's sleep.

No little sensation was caused by her carrying this intention into effect.

But this remedied the voluntarily imposed defect, and Frau Cosima's hair is as long and heavy today as it was 18 years ago, when Wagner died.

In spite of her age this remarkable old lady is one of the most remarkable women in Europe.

In Bayreuth, where she lives in the square stone villa, Wahnfried, which Wagner built and where she personally directs the smallest details of the yearly Wagner festival, the elderly Frau is practically a queen. Her recipients at Wahnfried, where she is invariably the most distinguished in appearance of all the women present, are of almost regal dignity and importance. Nevertheless her manner of life is simple enough except on her visits to Munich, where she maintains great state, being a constant visitor at court.

Housekeeping as a Science.

Boston has a school of housekeeping whose circular is calculated to discourage matrimony, inclined young women. If housekeeping means even a fraction of what is indicated in the schedule of studies, it is a thing to appall the stoutest hearted. Still, all prospective housekeepers are not supposed to study everything at once in the circular. There are two distinct courses of study in the school, one designed for the practical training of women who attain domestic responsibility or have it thrust upon them and the other for the training of teachers of domestic economy, health engineers and social reformers.

To the uninitiated the announcement of this second, or unprofessional, course means much what the Jabberwock meant to Alice. It seems to fill their minds with ideas, but they don't know exactly what the ideas are. Fortunately the circular recognizes the intellectual limitations of the innocent and explains: "A health engineer is a person fitted to undertake the healthful management of domestic matters in university halls, public institutions, etc. A social servant devotes her knowledge to the betterment of the living conditions of the 'other half' of society."

The promoters of the school are up to her husband's memory, and to every bar of his work. The husband long years ago of her romantic love for him when he was still the wife of an other man, her influence exerted upon her father, Liebi, in Wagner's favor, the tremendous energy she spent toward his advancement and the many manifestations of her wife's devotion, culminating in the spectacular sacrifice of her hair at Wagner's funeral day.

Forbently right in their statement that there is a need of greater competency in both these fields and that no superficial training will produce this competency. They have stamped the professional course on a basis of preliminary education of a high grade and hope that college women will see in what it offers opportunities for paying work of a high sociological value. Municipal sociology, the physiology of nutrition, house building, plumbing, heating drainage, the principles of cooking—these are only a few of the subjects included in the course, and moreover there is practical work in institutional management and social service, social settlement houses having been equipped for use as laboratories for experiment in social work. It may be said with that portion of the submerged tenth in the neighborhood of the settlements, but it will be the making of the aspiring students.

The simpler course of study, which is called the homemaker's course, doesn't imply any preliminary training. Any woman who has the moral courage, after reading the circular, may undertake it. It is founded on the bedrock principle that any uplift in the way of increased health and opportunity for life at large which sanitation and economics can effect must find its ultimate expression through the individual home, and the work is accordingly practical, but there seems to be a good deal of it. When a woman finishes the course, she should know everything about a home, from its responsibility as a social unit to the best way of keeping copper kettles bright.—New York Sun.

Benefits From the Bicycle.

There has been no greater blessing given to women of the present day for the benefit of health and happiness than the bicycle, properly used. To the woman compelled to earn her own living and that of others shut up in a shop and factory it has given the opportunity to get away from the treadmill of everyday life and seek health and happiness in God's pure air and green fields, returning refreshed and invigorated, better able to meet the conditions of life placed upon her.

And what an opportunity the bicycle has presented to the mother. Only a woman who has the care of a family can fully appreciate the benefit of a spin in the glorious morning air. If it be only 20 minutes' duration, how it quiets the nerves and sends the glow of health to the cheeks and the bright sparkle to the eyes, returning her to enter on the duties of the day glad at heart and making every one else so.
